

Information for Princeton Interns

Here is some information to help you with planning your trip to and stay in Princeton.

Getting To/From and Around Princeton

By plane...

NEC Labs is equidistant, just over an hour, from either the Newark International Airport (EWR)

<http://www.panynj.gov/airports/newark-liberty.html> or the Philadelphia Airport (PHL)

<http://www.phl.org/Pages/HomePage.aspx><http://www.phl.org/index.html>, however, the linking transport options are better from Newark. The New York City airports, JFK and LaGuardia, are also options but the ground transport to/from them is not as easy.

Here are some travel options from Newark Airport:

- Airport Shuttle – the Holiday Inn (South Brunswick) stop is the building next to NEC (about ¼ mile away) <http://www.stateshuttle.com/>
- New Jersey Transit Train – Newark Liberty International Airport stop will take you from the airport to Princeton Junction <http://www.njtransit.com>

By train...

From New York City – Penn Station

Take NJ Transit train (Northeast corridor line) to Princeton Junction (www.njtransit.com)

By car...

For those who plan to drive to work, NEC Labs offers free, on-site parking.

By bicycle...

For those of you who get your exercise by biking to work, NEC Labs has both bike racks and bike lockers for your convenience.

While there is some public transportation service (bus) in the Princeton area, having a car (or a roommate/friend with a car ☺) is recommended.

Travel Allowance

You may receive a lump sum travel allowance to cover your round-trip relocation expenses, including airfare/mileage, airport transportation, shipping, etc. if applicable.

Housing

In many university towns there are more sublets available than there is demand—unfortunately that's not the case in the Princeton area. Downtown Princeton is not within walking distance of NEC Labs' office, which is located just off Route 1 (a heavily traveled 2-4 lane highway). Check out a map of the area around our office park here: <https://www.visitprinceton.org/trip-planning/maps/>.

Many former interns found housing in Princeton or Plainsboro using Airbnb, rent.com and apartmentlist.com. You might also try: <https://offcampushousing.princeton.edu/> for housing by Princeton University.

To give you a point of reference for the cost of housing in the Princeton area, prior interns indicated their rent ranged from $1,400-$2,300/month with the median being $1,500.

In addition, we've secured a special rate with the local extended stay hotel to accommodate our summer interns (interns must directly pay for their reservations).
